

March 24, 2020

LVO donates safety gloves to local healthcare services provider

Amid the COVID-19 outbreak, Lehigh Valley Operations (LVO) was able to support healthcare efforts in our community through the in-kind donation of much-needed personal protective equipment (PPE) items given to a local healthcare provider.

On March 20, LVO Business Unit Director Bill Walls was approached by an acquaintance from Maxim Healthcare Services based at the organization's Allentown location. Due to depleted medical supply inventories, the home healthcare provider was in need of PPE items and reached out to Mack Trucks seeking any supplies that could be made available to support their healthcare team. Bill reached out to LVO's Safety Team to determine if LVO had any extra inventory of PPE supplies that could be donated.

LVO Health, Safety and Environmental team members Larry Howse and Travis Andrews were able to collect several cases of both heavy duty and nitrile surgical-type gloves, which were donated to Maxim Healthcare Services' Allentown location.

We Are Mack. We Are Safety. We Are People.