Mack

Deliveries in January totaled 1,382, down 15% compared with the year-earlier period. January last year was still dominated by vehicles equipped with engines compliant with the pre-2007 emission legislation. The current demand is at a low level, and is being impacted by the sluggish economy, and continued downturn in the US housing market.

Volvo Trucks

Volvo Trucks' deliveries during January amounted to 8,971 vehicles, up 15% compared with the year-earlier period. The demand in Europe remains high and deliveries increased by 32%. The total Asian market shows increasing deliveries as well, up 47% compared with the year earlier period, driven by strong demand in Middle East. The North American market is still weakened by the US economic downturn and shows a decline in deliveries by 15%.
